

Deaths from a Rivalry!!!

By: Jacob Strauser

Benvolio Montague and Mercutio Escalus were walking through the streets of Verona in the morning. They came along Tybalt Capulet and his gang and they started to argue about why Romeo Montague was at the Capulet's party the night before. Romeo walks into the argument and tries to break up the fight. Tybalt draw his sword and was coning to brawl with Romeo when Mercutio jumped in and blocked his attack. Tybalt and Mercutio battled for a few minutes when Tybalt drove Mercutio through. Tybalt and his gang ran for cover while Romeo and Benvolio try to save Mercutio from his death. Mercutio died soon after he was pulled into the nearest house.

Tybalt and his gang came back to rub it in Romeos face. Tybalt started to get into Romeos face so they start to duel. Romeo and the Tybalt fought for a few minutes when Romeo drove Tybalt through for killing his best friend. Benvolio tells Romeo to get as far away from the crime scene as he could.

When the people of Verona started to wake up and come into the streets they see the bloody scene. Prince Escalus and the Montague and Capulet families come to the scene to see what is happening. Benvolio explains what happened earlier in the morning and Prince Escalus makes a decision of what to do with Romeo. He finally decided to banish Romeo from the city of Verona instead of putting him to death.
